

Hello Cyberwolves

During this ongoing global COVID-19 pandemic we have been so fixated on social distancing, wearing masks and sanitising, that we have neglected to sanitise our brains, information, and technology. This week we look at the lack of sanitisation in all these areas, from hidden data in PDF files that can be exploited due to lack of sanitisation to keeping our global threat landscape sanitised to avoid any prominent threats. Be wise and sanitise! Stop the spread of viruses, stay ahead of the curve, and review your sanitisation methods as part of your security hygiene.

Exploitation and Sanitisation of Hidden Data in PDF Files

A research team reviews public PDF files from 75 security agencies from 47 countries.

Organisations are sharing and publishing volumes of electronic documents such as PDF files on websites. Unfortunately, many are unaware that these documents can compromise sensitive information.
